Exhibitors embrace new connections and sustainability

"I'm here at the fair for the first time, and I'm excited about the opportunities for making new connections and finding customers. We're showcasing Turkish cotton and focusing on sustainable materials, which generated a lot of interest because of the market demand. With this great booth traffic, we'd like to return to the next edition with a larger booth to better present our products and meet even more international visitors. Although selling takes time, I've already had inquiries, and I'm optimistic about following up with potential clients."

Visitors reflect on inspiring connections and opportunities

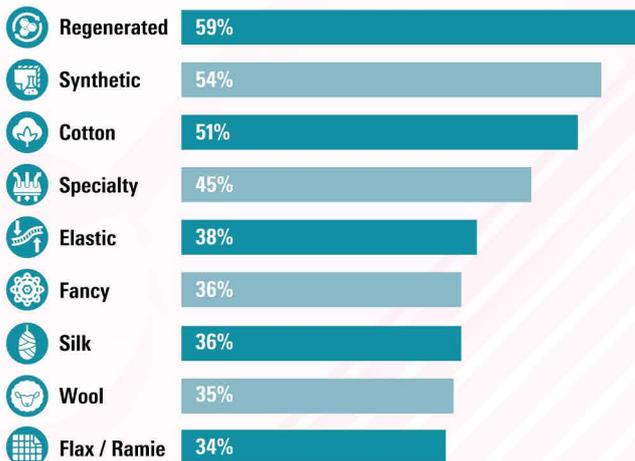

“As a representative of a US-based company specialising in energised comfort fabrics, I’ve been attending this fair every year, looking for functional yarns and fabrics. So far, we’ve already made some valuable contacts and plan to reconnect with them to explore new orders. This year, the fair feels more crowded and has a more international presence compared to last year, with a strong focus on visitors from Asia. Overall, the fair remains broad and offers great opportunities for networking and discovering new materials.”

Mr Ashwin Jaju, General Manager, Dricomfort (Optimer), USA
